

Each line indicates a person's answer. We can show the visualization based on different categories, like age groups, academic degrees, genders. We might be able to draw a most-fit line to show the general trends about probability words.